

Where Amazing Creatures Is Going

Equipping local churches to multiply one-on-one disciple makers

1. The direction has become clear

Amazing Creatures was born out of a simple conviction: Jesus' command to make disciples was given to all Christians. Many faithful Christians want to make disciples but simply do not know where to begin. After years of developing, using, testing, and refining the training and methodology, the clearest path forward is to multiply disciple makers through gospel-centered local churches.

2. The model

- The church owns it.
- The designated leader leads it.
- Amazing Creatures equips and supports them.

Church leadership selects a designated leader. Amazing Creatures orients that leader, and the leader completes the entire disciple-maker training before others in the church begin. Interested members receive a clear overview of the ministry and commitment, then those who choose to proceed work through the online training with their designated leader available for questions, encouragement, and support.

3. The goal is disciple making

The goal is not completion of a course. The goal is Christians building relationships, opening Scripture with new or growing believers, and continuing to mature so they can increasingly help others understand and apply God's Word. Becoming an effective disciple maker is a lifelong pursuit.

"There is no greater joy than discovering the unsearchable riches of Christ and helping others do the same."

4. Why this can multiply

As the designated leader gains experience, that person becomes increasingly capable of supporting disciple makers within the church. Amazing Creatures remains behind the leader whenever help is needed.

Instead of managing every disciple maker, Amazing Creatures equips and supports leaders who support the disciple makers in their own churches.

5. What we are building now

Amazing Creatures has grown out of years of developing, using, testing, and refining an approach to one-on-one disciple making. The challenge now is to build Amazing Creatures in a way that allows what works to multiply without losing what makes it work. That means solidifying the ministry model, completing and refining the training, establishing church onboarding, developing designated-leader support, protecting the integrity of the materials and methodology, and building the technology and organizational infrastructure necessary to serve churches well.

We are not simply trying to build a larger ministry. We want to help local churches develop generations of Christians who make disciples.
